7TH SUNDAY OF EASTER

"They do not belong to the world any more than I belong to the world.... As you sent me into the world, so I send them into the world." In his prayer to God the Father in today's Gospel, Jesus gives an interesting perspective on what it means to follow him. He suggests that--like himself--his disciples have a mission in a world to which they do not belong. Clearly, their "not belonging" doesn't mean not participating. It doesn't mean being separated from the world or avoiding the world. On the contrary, it means a very real encounter with the world. Jesus came into the world and sincerely engaged people and institutions by teaching, serving, and praying. But all the while, as he told Pontius Pilate, he knew that his kingdom did "not belong to this world" (cf. Jn 18:36). Jesus' work on earth had the greater purpose of serving the kingdom of heaven.

As Christians, we should also have our eyes on this eternal kingdom. Through our baptism, we are members of the heavenly realm, and through this sacrament we are also equipped to bring a taste of heaven to earth. Our place in this world is to make connections to God's kingdom. We are not called to ignore the activity of the world and just wait until eternity comes around. Rather, we are called to share the love of God through our acts of service, our dedication to our vocations, and our commitment to making the world a better place for everyone. A proactive approach like this keeps us rooted in our fundamental identity as followers of Jesus. The world may try to distract us from our mission or convince us that it's not important. But we shouldn't buy the lie. After all, we Christians have been "consecrated in truth."

"Whoever confesses that Jesus is the Son of God, God abides in him and he in God." – 1 John 4:15

How strong is your faith? When you have an opportunity to defend your faith or clarify a question about your faith, do you do it? Or, do you remain silent so that others don't think you are different? Pray for the courage to be strong in your faith and share your witness with others.
